

Saving $24K For A Texas Imaging Center

Executive Summary

In 2021, PVS filed the personal property tax return for an imaging center in Round Rock, Texas. Upon review of the assessment, PVS discovered that multiple high-dollar machines were double assessed and could be removed from the assessment.

Challenges

In order to identify the equipment that had been double assessed, PVS had to request the relevant information from the taxing jurisdiction needed to research the value increase. Once the information was provided, PVS had to compare the filing to the assessment.

Results

PVS was able to secure over $24,000 in savings for the client.

How PVS Helped

PVS appealed the assessment and made the case to the assessor that certain pieces of equipment were being assessed and taxed on two different accounts. Ultimately PVS convinced the assessor to remove those assets from the Client's account.

"PVS was able to reduce their taxable assessment by identifying double assessments and ultimately convincing the assessor to remove them."
